

Explosive Behaviour in COVID-19 and Policy Responses: Lessons Learned for an Emerging Market Economy

Ahmet Aysan¹, Lokman Gunduz¹, and R. Bagci¹

¹Affiliation not available

July 13, 2022

Abstract

Since the first case of Covid-19 in Turkey, there has been a blank question as elsewhere in the world: “When will or should the government impose severe restrictions to protect public health?” This study shows how to detect the episodes during which the pandemic displays explosive behaviour, thereby asking for stricter restrictions. It also aims to document the link between explosive periods in the COVID-19 associated deaths and cases in Turkey and policy measures taken by the Turkish government.

Hosted file

covid_sage.docx available at <https://authorea.com/users/720036/articles/704917-explosive-behaviour-in-covid-19-and-policy-responses-lessons-learned-for-an-emerging-market-economy>